Reported Discoveries at Rock Island

WONDERFUL RELICS—STATUES AND AN OBELISK OF BRASS.

The Rock Island (Illinois) [illegible] gives the following particulars of the reported discovery of aboriginal relics at that place, a remarkable story, if true, and an ingenious hoax if untrue. In either case, the story is worth reading.

The Argus says: We have the pleasure this evening of laying before our readers the result of one of the most interesting subterranean exploring expeditions ever attempted on this continent. It is nothing less than an underground passage way under Rock Island, the present site of the United States arsenal, and the discovery of antiquarian relics of the rarest and most interesting character.

The entrance is a large cave, as our home readers are doubtless aware, is plainly visible from the ferry landing, as well as other portions of our city bordering on the river bank, and although some ten feet in diameter at the entrance, it gradually diminishes in size until some twenty five feet are reached, when it is with difficulty that a person can effect an entrance by crawling through the aperture, but, when once fairly through, there is no difficulty in standing erect.

Until the recent interesting discoveries were made by the enterprising explorers, representing an eastern scientific society, and who are now sojourning in this city, this cave has never been known to be over 120 feet in depth, and has possessed nothing more than ordinary interest, except as having been thought by the stern old Sac warrior, Black Hawk, to have been the abode of the Great Spirit that presided over their destinies. But upon close examination at the terminus of one of the darkest and most intricate recesses, a narrow cavity was discovered in the rock, and by the aid of a torch forced into it, an interior apartment was found, upon entering which the party were enabled to explore the subterranean passage for a distance of nearly 1,000 feet. The main passage is some six feet in width and about nine in height, and is evidently a natural cavern, though in several places there are evidences of its having been widened, as chisel marks can be distinctly discovered on the walls—besides numerous small recesses at regular intervals of fifty feet, which bear traces of having been hewn out of the massive solid rock.

The second corridor, leading from the main one, is very extensive—containing six ponderous pillars enwreathed with gorgeous decorations. Beyond this is a shorter chamber, in which is the entrance to the sanctum sanctorum, and which contains some of the grandest collections of antiquarian curiosities ever discovered on the continent. It contains a huge pedestal in the center constructed of solid copper, upon which is erected a magnificent shrine, which, with its unique inscription, denotes the antiquity of its devotees. Surrounding it are the colossal figures of twelve worshippers in kneeling posture, and quite contiguous to them is the symmetrical though diminutive figure of an Indian maiden, with a countenance of surpassing beauty, and strongly marked features, indicative of deep thought and wondrous surprise, pointing with one hand to the expressive word engraved upon the wall—Sheol—indicating that the end of their destiny and race is at hand. Above them all, on its projecting and crescent shaped roof, are arranged in systematic precision, cross-bows, arrows and other weapons in warlike profusion—reminding one of the ancient sons of Persia and Greece.

The atmosphere in this apartment is almost unfit to sustain animal life, being damp, heavy and very impure. The torches of the exploring party were several times extinguished, and the persons having the expedition in charge barely escaped suffocation.

A BRASS OBELISK.

Immediately adjoining the room containing these wonders is an obelisk of solid brass, some seven feet high, beautifully sculptured on four sides. There are, in all, twenty-one small bas-reliefs, and above, below and between them is carved an inscription seventy-six lines in length. The whole is in the best state of preservation—scarcely a character of the inscription is wanting, and the figures are as sharp and well defined as if executed only a few days ago. One of the scenes represented is a circle of the ancient aborigines sitting in council, with the all-potent pipe of peace performing its wonted circuit, while the fortunes of war and peace are being discussed in presence of the white-winged presiding genius. Another scene represented is a royal chieftain followed by his attendants—a prisoner is at his feet, while men are being introduced leading various animals and carrying ponderous cross-bows, javelins and other weapons. The animals represented are the elephant, polar bear, lion, stag and various kinds of monkeys. The ornaments graven on the robes of the party, the tassels and fringes, the bracelets and armlets, the elaborate curls of the hair and beard are all entire. One of the chiefs stands very erect, and carries an animal resembling a chamois on his right arm, and in his left a branch bearing fine flowers. Around his temple is a filet adorned in front with a rosette. One of the other characters, in a tragical attitude, holds a square vessel resembling a basket, in his left hand, and a drawn dagger in his right, while on his head is worn a rounded cap, at the base of which is a horn. The garments of both consist of a robe falling from the shoulders to the ankle, and a short tunic underneath, descending to the knee, and are richly and tastefully decorated with embroideries and fringes, whilst the hair and beard are arranged with study and taste. The limbs are delineated with peculiar accuracy, and the muscles and bones faithfully, though somewhat too strongly marked.

A COPPER STATUE.

After proceeding farther, the party reached a large room with a high arched roof, in which were the entrances to many other chambers. This contained the crowning gem of the wonders—nothing less than a huge sarcophagus of copper—nine feet long, and three feet wide, minutely sculptured within and without, with several hundred figures representing an immense funeral procession and ceremonies relating to the deceased chieftain, with emblems and other devices. The lid was partly removed and revealed a quantity of bones and javelins.

TOPHET.

In one of the secluded corners of this apartment, and a few feet below the level of the floor, is the arched entrance to an unexplored chamber, approached by a narrow passage down through a hideous stone stairway. The party, after repeated efforts to affect an entrance, were obliged to abandon it. In plainly defined Indian characters it bears the significant inscription, "All hope abandoned, ye who enter in," an admonition which, while it tended only to excite and increase the curiosity of the explorers, was wisely heeded.

WEAPONS AND ORNAMENTS.

The knowledge of this ancient and interesting race, does not seem, by any means, to have been confined to statuary and sculpture. Their weapons and the jewel ornaments with which their persons were adorned, though principally of copper, are, in some instances, twisted with gold and silver, and carved in the most exquisite manner conceivable, indicating [illegible] and scientific attainments of the highest order. The luxury and refinement of an elevated civilization are clearly delineated in mysterious images and devices, rather than the wretchedness, ignorance and superstitions of a semi-barbarous race, as eminent authors of the present age have surmised our country, previous to its discovery by Columbus, to have been inhabited by.

At present the strictest vigilance is observed at the cave, no person being allowed to enter it without permission from one or more of the explorers. During the interval we understand it to be the intention of the party to ship the movable portion of the relics at once to New York, if permission from the War Department for their removal can be obtained.

"Moreover which is a great iniquity, and against all humanity, the husband shall not be ashamed to reduce thereby his wholesome and clean complexioned wife to that extremity, that either she must also corrupt her sweet breath therewith, or else resolve to live in a perpetual stinking torment. Have you not reason to be ashamed and to forbear this [illegible] loathe [illegible] the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs, and in the black, stinking fumes thereof, nearest resembling the horrible stygian smoke of the bottomless pit."

DATES TO FEBRUARY 10.

Congressional. Counting the Electoral Vote.

One said the matter was too important to be considered by so thin a Senate.

[illegible] objected because there appeared to be a [illegible] the company began [illegible].

The bill allowing [illegible] assessors [illegible] officers passed.

Near one o'clock a message was received from the House announcing that they were ready to receive the Senate for the purpose of counting the electoral vote. At 1:15 the Senators returned to their Chamber, when the Secretary read an objection raised to the counting of the vote of Louisiana, on the ground that no valid election for President and Vice President had been held in that State.

Trumbull offered a resolution that in the opinion of the Senate, the vote of Louisiana should be counted.

Several Senators offered amendments changing the phraseology of the resolution, which were successively voted down.

The Senate got locked on questions of order, but after an hour's discussion finally adopted a resolution offered by Edmonds 21 to 26 that under a joint rule of the two Houses the objection to counting the vote of Georgia was not in order. Everybody seemed to differ as to the condition in which this left the case, and several new propositions were offered. A message was received from the House announcing that they had voted not to count the vote of Georgia. A scene of considerable confusion ensued.

Stewart offered a resolution, which the chair decided in order.

Williams appealed from the decision of the chair, which was sustained 27 to 25.

The Secretary was directed to inform the House of this action, and the Senate at 4:10 again proceeded to the House. At 4:45 the Senators returned to their chamber.

Morton offered a resolution appointing one Senator and two Representatives to wait on General Grant and Schuyler Colfax, and inform them of their election.

Senator Morgan was appointed on that Committee, on the part of the Senate, which then adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—In the House there was great pressure to obtain seats in the galleries before noon. Every portion open to the public was occupied, and the doors and corridors were thronged. Many ladies occupied places in the gentlemen's gallery. There were but few colored people present.

At 12:40 Schenck moved that the Senate be informed that the House was ready to receive them.

The New York and Washington Railroad bill was called up as the first business in order.

Phillips moved to lay on the table. Lost, 6 to 111.

The votes of the States were read and announced seriatim, commencing with New Hampshire, until Louisiana was reached.

Representative Williams objected to the counting of the vote from that State. More discussions rose as to what should be done in view of the case.

Several members attempted to induce Williams to withdraw his objection. But he refused.

The Speaker required that the objection be presented in writing, which was done.

The Senate thereupon entered their Chamber and after a brief discussion the House agreed to count the vote of Louisiana, yeas—137, nays, 63.

During the taking of the vote Lawrence of Ohio, endeavored to raise a point of order that no objection can be made or entertained to counting the electoral vote of any State except there is no such State entitled to vote, or that the certificate transmitting the vote is irregular.

Schenck desired to offer a resolution that the House, in admitting the vote of Louisiana neither affirms or denies anything with regard to the manner in which the election in Louisiana was conducted.

Objection was made by several other members, who desired to offer resolutions or remarks.

At fifteen minutes of two the message from the Senate notified the House they had resolved that the electoral votes of Louisiana should be counted, immediately the Senators returned and took their places. The presiding officers announced the result of the deliberation of both Houses, whereupon the vote of Louisiana was counted seven for Seymour and Blair. The call of States continued until Georgia was reached.

Butler objected to the counting of the vote on the ground that the electors met on the second Wednesday in December instead of the first, as required in the Constitution, and because at the time of the election of said electors the State of Georgia was not represented in Congress, and several other points were included.

Heavy Storm in California

MARYSVILLE, Feb. 10.—A heavy southeast storm prevailed here most of the day yesterday, all last night and up to noon to-day. The weather is quite cold, and has prevented as high a stage of water in the rivers as might have been anticipated from the quantity of rain falling. The Yuba has risen about five feet to-day, and is rising slowly to-night. The water in the Feather is up to the freight shed of the California Steam Navigation Company, at the old landing, and will probably continue to rise during the night.

The driver of a Downieville stage, which arrived this morning four hours behind time, reports eight feet of snow at the Mountain House.

A portion of the railroad bridge at Coon creek four miles north of Lincoln, was washed away and the train from Sacramento this morning had to return to that city. The extent of damage to the bridge is not known here but will probably require several days to repair it.

[illegible] since which time snow has fallen to the depth of [illegible] inches and is still coming. Snow is three feet on an average on the Union hill and five miles east of here.

He had [illegible] considerable money in his possession when he disappeared, and it is probable he was robbed and murdered.

[illegible] two inches of snow fell in this city yesterday and last night, and was accompanied by a heavy southeast gale. The damage in this city [illegible], so far as heard from, has been principally in the great amount of rain washing [illegible] embankments, and covering the track of the street railroads. At the Ocean House, near Lake Merced, the rain caused considerable damage by undermining roads and fences, and in the western addition and the Presidio portions of the street are almost impassible.

The heavy rain storm last night, damaged the San [illegible] Railroad quite severely, at several points [illegible]. The morning train from San Jose [illegible] safely, although in many places the track was wholly submerged.

Passengers report the valley flooded in many places, fences swept off, houses deluged and railroads flooded in many places, and embankments washed away, rendering it very dangerous for trains to pass over the road.

Considerable damage was also done to the telegraph lines between here and San Jose.

Horatio Seymour in Plaster.

The bust of Mr Seymour, which is highly [illegible] as a truthful representation by the relatives and friends of that gentleman, was executed several years ago, when he was Governor of the State. The artist stipulated for the privilege of multiplying copies of this work for sale, but realized nothing from it until the nomination of Horatio by the July Convention. Then, says a [illegible] journalist, who narrates this story, an enthusiastic speculator in statuary and paintings, [illegible] to Mr Philip's studio in hot haste, and bargained for the immediate delivery of 50 copies. The sale of these was at first so rapid among the prominent politicians around the City Hall of New York, that the speculator forthwith ordered additional copies before he had disposed of all the first lot. But when the effect of that unfortunate nomination began to be developed in the country, the sale of the busts went down to [illegible] nothing at all. "Redhot" Democrats, instead of buying when applied to, would generally fob off the vendor by sending him to some one else—to Mr. A., or Mr. B.— who, they were "sure, would take one copy at least, if not more." And so the speculator was sent from pillar to post and back again, until he began to feel not a little discouraged. His discouragement was rendered complete, when, one day, in accordance with the advice of a waggish Democrat, he called upon an irritable old gentleman of strong Republican principles, "Can I sell you a bust of Seymour to-day?" inquired the speculator, as he entered the counting room of this gentleman.

"Sa-a-ymour," responded the irritable gentleman, with a decided emphasis on the first syllable "No—I don't want it. If I had one, I would put it in my—barn."

After this rebuff, the disheartened speculator concluded to make no further efforts to sell his busts. But it occurred to him that he might prevail on the artist to take back, at a discount, what he had left on his hands, and so one day he presented himself at the studio of Mr Phillip with a request that he would allow him half-price for them. "They would be of no possible use to me at any price," said the artist.

"No," was the reponse. "Plaster, after it has been once used is good for nothing but as a fertilizer. How many busts have you on hand?"

"About forty," was the reply.

After musing a moment, the artist remarked "That amount of Seymour stock, ground fine, would, according to the mental calculation I have just made, be amply sufficient to fertilize one quarter of an acre of soil." "But I don't want to waste any property in that way," cried the speculator; "couldn't the busts be altered so as to look like some one else—like Brick Pomeroy, for instance!"

The artist shook his head, saying: "Impossible. Besides, bricks made of plaster would be utterly worthless for any purpose."

This cross-play of the artist drove the speculator off in a huff. The next that was heard of his busts was, that they were being sold slowly at evening auctions at from 25 to 30 cents a piece. At the outset they readily fetched $10.

STOW FOUNDATION PAVEMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 18, 1869.

Hon. Frank McCoppin, Mayor of San Francisco—Dear Sir: You have now been connected with our City Government as Supervisor and Mayor for the past nine years, during which time you must have given a great deal of attention to Street Paving, and I now ask it as a special favor to me, that you give briefly, in writing, the result of your convictions relative to the several styles of street paving now in use in this city. By so doing you will much oblige

Your obedient servant,
H. F. WILLIAMS,
President Stow Foundation Pavement Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 20th, 1869.

Henry F. Williams, Esq., President of the S. F. P. Co.—Dear Sir: Your communication of yesterday, requesting me to give in writing my opinion relative to the several kinds of street pavement now in use in this city, is before me, and in reply I would say, that at the time I became a municipal officer of this city, in 1860, and for many years the cobble-stone was the only kind of pavement used by the city in its corporate, and by individuals in their individual capacity. About five years ago the Nicolson pavement was introduced here by Mr J. J. Robbins, assignee of the owner of the patent, and was received with much favor by our citizens. Very many portions of our streets are now paved with the Nicolson Pavement, so-called—still later—that is to say, about two years ago, the "Stow Foundation Pavement" was introduced here by the inventor, and many of our public streets have since been paved with that pavement.

A sufficient length of time has, I think, elapsed, to enable any person who has given the subject any attention, to form an intelligent opinion as to the merits of the respective wooden pavements—of course, I leave the cobble-stones out of view entirely—and I have come to the conclusion, that, in many respects, such as adaptability to our wants and in durability, the Stow is the superior pavement. But, were the two pavements equal in every other respect, the facility with which the Stow can be taken up and relaid, whenever it becomes necessary to displace it for the purpose of laying down gas and water pipes, should, in my judgment, entitle it to preference and public favor.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
FRANK McCOPPIN,
Mayor of the City of San Francisco.

We, the undersigned, have carefully read the above letter from his Honor, Frank McCoppin, to H. F. Williams, Esq., upon the subject of street paving, and we fully indorse every word it contains.

DOWN THE RIVER.—On Friday, the steamer Okanagan towed the bark Adele from Rainier and the bark Almatia from a point about half way between Rainier and Oak Point, to Astoria. Both vessels were heavily laden, the former with lumber from St Helens and Rainier, and the latter with produce from Portland. They both, probably went to sea on Saturday, as the weather was favorable. ..The bark Live Yankee arrived inside the bar on Friday and anchored in the stream near Ft. Stevens where she lay, at the departure of the Okanagan, Saturday morning.... The bark Helen Angier from San Francisco, and the New York bark, Oxnyn were outside the bar on Saturday morning.....The brig Brewster, Capt Corno, went to sea on Friday... On Saturday evening the steamer Ajax was lying at anchor in the Wallamet near Springville . Last Friday evening an encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic called Astoria Encampment No. —, was organized at Astoria, by C. P. Crandall, with ten members and the following list of officers: Lt. A. K. Bush, Commander; Chas H Horne, Senior Vice Commander; Michael Mears, Junior Vice Commander; Wm. B Ross, Adjutant, and John Tonner, Quartermaster. The new hotel built by Capt Flavel and kept by our former fellow townsman, S. N. Arrigoni, was recently opened and has a fair prospect of being a success. It is a fine large building, and Mr Arrigoni has everything in excellent shape ...Astoria has, within the last year, grown very perceptibly. New streets have been opened both above and below the old town, as well as in the rear of it; the wharves are new and better than of old; and many new buildings have been added to the former group, and the place begins to wear quite the air of a commercial town .. The Hemlock Tannery is getting to be an institution of considerable importance. Its capacity is now about five thousand hides annually and the product is said to be equal to anything made in California or elsewhere on the Pacific coast. By the last steamer but one, the proprietors shipped twenty rolls of sole leather, ordered by parties at San Francisco.....The Salmon fisheries along the lower Columbia river have become so numerous as to excite astonishment in the minds of those who have not till recently seen them. Some of them are carrying on business on a very extensive scale. At the works of Hapgood, Hume & Co. the proprietors are employing a large number of hands in the manufacture of pound tin cans, to be filled with pickled Salmon when the spring season shall open. At the adjoining works—half a mile below—of Hume Bros not less than near one million of such cans will be made up by the time the spring run of salmon shall begin; and they expect to fill every one of them during the season. They now have on hand great store rooms piled full of cans—probably not much fewer than six hundred thousand at the two places. Several of the fisheries below are carrying on a similar business on a scale but little less extensive.

Messrs. Miller, Marshall & Co.'s Oregon City Flouring Mill commenced operations on Tuesday evening last. The mill is a perfect success.....Wednesday last was the 25th anniversary of the birth of the first white male child (Mr. S. D. Richardson) in Oregon City. He was the eldest son, we believe, of James M. Moore, Esq., of this city. His health had been failing for some time, growing into consumption, and he had gone to Walla Walla in hopes of receiving benefits from a dryer climate, when he died. Mr. Moore was a young man about 19 years of age.....The following officers of Wall—s' Lodge, No. 15, I. O. G. T., for the ensuing term were duly installed by Lodge Deputy Peter Paquet on Saturday evening last: C W Todd, W C T; Mrs Lar—que, W R H S; Miss Marion Francis, W L H S; Miss Harriet F—, W V T; Peter Paquet, W S; T J B—, W A S; C O Pollan, W F S; Miss Mary Warren, T—, L D—, W M; Miss Fanny Bolds, W D M; Miss Ida Francis, W I G; Geo F Smith, W O G; Rev E Geary, Chap; J A F V P W C T.

STREET WORK.—The following is a statement of street work done in this city, from July 1st to December 31st, 1868, as shown by the records in the office of the City Surveyor, to which Mr. Morris has kindly given us access:

Lineal feet of sidewalk constructed	56,953
Lineal feet of cross-walk	13,037
Lineal feet plank roading	4,320
Cubic yards broken stone	1,051
Cubic yards gravel	606
Cubic yards sand	414
Cubic yards earth embankment	48,038
Cubic yards excavation	43,193

Prior to July 1st, 1868, the total lineal feet of sidewalk laid down, was 79,200 feet. Total of cross-walk 2,600 feet.

A JOKE.—Somebody caused to be published in our paper the other morning an announcement that a "11 pound" son had been born to the wife of Mr Ed Copley, of the Cascades. A day or two afterward, we received a letter from Mr. Copley, who says it must have been published as a joke, and that accordingly he has had a hearty laugh over it, but that the fact is the family has not been blessed with a boy at all, and that their youngest and only child is a girl of five years. The party who ordered the publication, may know where the joke comes in, but we can't see it—not with the naked eye.

A GOOD THING.—In one of the valley towns, where Wells, Fargo & Co recently established an express office, a countryman had made many unsuccessful inquiries at the Post office for a letter. He believed he ought to get a letter and wondered why he didn't. He had strong suspicions that there was something wrong. One day hearing of the new express office, he rushed in, inquired for a letter, and got one. His face breaking out all over with satisfaction and triumph, he exclaimed "Well, I'm gol darned glad we've got two Post offices. It's the best thing Andy Johnson ever did. And I'm smashed if I don't think two Post offices will pay, too."

CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON, JUDGE.—Saturday was "motion day," and but little business was transacted other than submitting and passing upon preliminary motions in various cases.

PENN'S ROYAL EXPECTORANT is a safe and instant relief for Whooping Cough. MRS. WINTHROP.

PENN'S ROYAL EXPECTORANT has cured my children of Whooping Cough and Croup, and I advise all parents to have a bottle for instant use in case of need.

J. H. ENTLER.

Polk Co., Oregon, Feb. 10, 1869.

How often do you hear the complaint from mother and father that their son or daughter is not well, that they have no appetite, that they feel languid, that their head aches, that they are growing thin and feeble, and that they have no life or energy left. That they are low spirited, and perfectly incapacitated to participate in any pleasure, or perform any mental or physical duty. And the question is as often asked, what shall I do for them? or, what shall I give them? Our answer is, let them try PLANTATION BITTERS moderately three times a day, and our word for it they will recover.

The New Administration

eneral Grant is going to form his Cabinet thout dictation from anybody. Even the ntlemen selected are not to be apprised of e fact until their names are sent to the nate for confirmation." Observe the good d substantial reasons which Grant assigns r this course. Such a man, we may venture say, will never be caught in the coils of heming and selfish politicians. During the r, he picked out and called around him the ry best men, and his habit in this regard es not permit us to doubt that his Cabinet ll be composed of men of the first order.

This reticence, in a President elect, it must conceded is very unusual. Heretofore the aders of the dominant party have had much do in one way and another, in making up abinets for in-coming Presidents. But the mes have so changed as to make the course hich Grant pursues a very wise precaution. ie multiplication of offices has multiplied fice-seekers beyond all precedent. There e cliques, combinations, monopolies, and endless variety of interests, some local and hers of a more general character, which ant to be "in" with the Administration. eneral Grant must be independent of them l. He must be free from their intrigues d dictation. We think, therefore, that the recautions he is now observing augur well r a successful Administration. It is a good gn that the office-seekers and the "rings" e not to have a part in making the Cabinet.

Of course we do not mean to say that the dministration should not be a partisan one, sing that word in its better signification. No on-partisan Administration can be successl. Such a thing would be as impossible as non-partisan political contest. The Presient who disregards party-obligations virally abandons the principles he professes to epresent. These facts have always been apreciated by the Democratic leaders. Gen. ackson schooled them in the doctrine. But e leaders of the anti-Democratic party never ad a true knowledge of this elementary rinciple of permanent success. It is singur enough that men who acknowledge the alue and necessity of discipline in all strugles to achieve political victory, seem to be ntirely wanting in an appreciation of the nly true way to give effect to such victory. emocratic Presidents and leaders never iled to sustain their party friends. This ethod of maintaining party discipline by ewarding meritorious services has been a reat element of strength in the Democratic arty. But the Republicans have never duly ppreciated it. The Democratic party, resting s it does under the odium of sympathy with e rebellion, has been able to survive, solely ecause of Republican mistakes. And not e least of these mistakes has been the failre to take such measures as would thoroughorganize and discipline the forces opposed the Democratic party.

Therefore, while the new Administration hould be independent of citizens and rings,' it can be successful only by recogizing party obligations. This we believe en. Grant will do. He is a man of too uch sagacity to hope for success in any ther way. It has been truly remarked by a ery acute politician that it is folly to say that President after he goes into office must disgard party and become so-called "national;" r the fact that he has been elected President nplies that he has secured the indorsement a majority of the people, and the will of e majority for the time being is the national d not a partisan will.

To Whom it May Concern.

The w[illegible] preference of the Republicans New York, in assigning to Gov. Fenton the natorial seat of Mr. Morgan after March xt, conveys to all concerned, in other ates as well as theirs, a significant indicaon of that unyielding Republican sentiment hich pervades the party everywhere. To ake still clearer this sentiment, and as lowing exactly what it means, we copy om the New York Tribune an explanation of organ's defeat, which we affectionately mmend to the sober reflection of such Johnsonized Federal office-holders "and Copr-Johnsons generally, as may read this pargraph. And while they are in this reflecting ood, let them ponder upon the fate of all at army of time-servers who for the last n years have been trimming and balancing d affiliating with the opposition, in expecion of a political reaction against the Reblican party. Over every man of this deription the cold waves of political oblivion ave rolled; and as Andrew Johnson deends into the political dead house, all who ve been, even remotely, connected with him ar him company. Of old it was said. There is a way which seemth right unto a an, but the end thereof is death." Such en as Doolittle, Dixon and Henderson have und these words bitterly true. Trumbull, essenden and Grimes are rushing to the me fate. But we are forgetting the Trine's paragraph. Here it is:

> It is due to Governor Morgan that the true reaon should be given. He stands identified in the neral estimation with our Johnsonized Federal fice holders, whose pecuniary and political af iation with the copperhead Democracy, during e dark hours of '66 and '67 is bitterly rememred. That one of the best subsidized of these negade, is now seeking translation from the Col ctorship of this port into the character of Env y Extraordinary [very] to the Emperor of All e Russias, intensified the feelings of hostility to e entire crowd, and to any one whom they ere well known to favor. Nobody imagined at they would all be kept in office under Gen al Grant; but the apprehension that some of em might be, and that Governor Morgan, from g n associations, would be inclined to regard em with favor, turned the scale against his reection.

Density of Population in New York City.

A New York weekly paper, in speaking of e fact that tens of thousands of people are nnually driven out of that city on account f the want of room, and compelled to find esidences on Long Island or in New Jersey, entions that out of the 141,486 lots into hich Manhattan Island is divided, only bout ten thousand are built upon, and thus ne half the island is still unoccupied by ouses. In showing how the city's immense opulation is packed into a small compass, the llowing statements are made:

> The four miles of Fifth Avenue contain 400 amilies, a single block, not far distant, contains 00 families and 5,000 souls. Throughout the hole city the average number of families per ouse is three, and that of persons fifteen. While 171 dwellings contain 30,330 families, and 150,- 0 persons, 16,381 others contain 85,634 families 425,000 persons, averaging five families and enty five to a house. Of 115,986 families, only 15,990 have a house apiece; 14,362 ners live two in a house, 4,416 buildings contain three families each, while the remaining 11,- 0 houses shelter 72,306 families, averaging six d or thirty five persons to a house. There are 0 tenements containing 10,933 families, or ove eighty five persons each; 193 others, containing 111 persons each; seventy-one others, ntaining 140 each; and 29 which have a popution of 5,448, or 187 to each house.

Small Notes

The U. S. Senate has passed a resolution directing the Secretary of War to deliver to the Lincoln Monument Association some condemned cannon for casting of statues and other ornamental work for the memorial to be erected at Springfield, Ill.

The vote on the suffrage amendment in the Senate was 40 ayes to 18 noes. As there are but twelve Democrats in that body it is apparent that at least six republican Senators voted no. These six no doubt were from the Pacific States. They refused to vote for the amendment because it does not contain a clause especially excluding the Chinese from the exercise of the suffrage. Under the circumstances they did right.

The New York Times says: "The American claimants of Alta Vela, the guano of which will be recollected in connection with the impeachment trial, had better assert their claims very quickly. President Baez, of St. Domingo, has granted the guano product of the island as a guarantee for a loan of $2,000,000 from an English capitalist, and it is reported that, immediately on the completion of the contract, English vessels will assert their control of Alta Vela." Where is Judge Black?

The effects of Ben. Butler's Democratic training "crop out" quite frequently and sometimes in a very disreputable manner. The muss he kicked up when the electoral vote was being counted was disgraceful, and he deserves the severest censure, if not expulsion from the House. We did hope he would be beaten last fall, but rebel and Democratic abuse re-elected him. Butler was just the man to tame the New Orleans rebels, but as a member of Congress he brings his party into discredit and inflicts serious damage on the good name of the country.

We have been asked for a statement of the facts relative to the "Rogers murder," to which reference has often been made of late in our telegraphic dispatches. So far as known the facts are these: In New York city, on the 30th of last December, Mr. Rogers, an elderly gentleman, of good standing and greatly respected, was attacked by a ruffian, in front of his house, which is on Twelfth street, not a stone's throw from Broadway, at half past seven in the morning. The assailant undertook to rob Mr. Rogers of his watch and purse, but the old gentleman defended himself bravely, when the thief stabbed him in the bowels with a large knife, and then ran off, leaving his booty, as well as his hat, part of his coat, and the sheath of his knife. Mr Rogers died on Saturday, the 2d of January.

The Late Indian Campaign.

The Army and Navy Journal gives a clear review of the brief but decisive winter campaign which Gens. Sherman and Sheridan have made against the hostile Indians. The essential point is that winter instead of summer is the time to deal with the murdering bands, when flight is impossible instead of preferable, and when defeat is destruction instead of mere temporary dispersion. The article contains this remark:

> In fine, we have here an example of a campaign carried out, for once, by the army, without the interference of civilian agents, who, however, have hinted or predicted failure from the start. Having thus given a good blow to the Indians, the work of pacification will be found less difficult. They have already found out that the fighting is henceforth to be done to suit us, and not to suit them.

It would seem, says the New York Sun, that so short a demonstration of the superiority of army over departmental administration leaves no good argument against the bill already passed by the House, but hanging fire in the Senate, giving over the control of Indian affairs to the military arm of the Government.

STATE ITEMS.

The Salem paper of Saturday, says: "Mr. Wm. Waldo, who went as supercargo with a shipment of flour from the Salem Mills to Australia, returned home day before yesterday.

Albany has no fire engine. This is singular neglect for a town of its proportions. As disastrous fires are so common in Albany, it would seem that its citizens might conclude that they could save money by buying at least one machine. But perhaps they know their own wants best.

The Jacksonville Sentinel of last week, says: Since the last few cases of small-pox appeared, there have been immense quantities of pitch-pine burned in the streets. By day, the town is enveloped in smoke and by night the deserted streets are lit up by lines of fires that blaze and flicker among the shadows, and throw a ghastly and sepulchral light on everything it falls upon.

Ben. Simpson, Esq., reached Washington City on the 12th inst. The Albany Register says: News comes from Salem that the East Side Company offers to connect with Albany, provided the citizens will take stock in the road to the amount of $30,000. The Albany town proprietors, Messrs. Walter and Thomas Monteith, have agreed to take $10,000 worth of the stock, leaving $20,000 to be raised by citizens, which, we are assured, has or will be taken immediately.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—At noon yesterday M. Charles Ferdinand De Cazotte, Consul-Gen. of the French Empire, and officer of the Legion of Honor, died at the Occidental Hotel, of malignant small pox, after an illness of nine days.

A dispatch from Gov. Stanford to Mayor Merritt states that the terminus of the Western Pacific railroad will be located at Oakland, as heretofore agreed upon, and that labor will be commenced upon the terminal works as soon as the heavy work now being pushed through Livermore gap is completed.

A slight earthquake was felt here at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Reports from San Jose state that the shock was quite severe in that city.

Judge Sawyer of the 4th District Court, yesterday morning rendered a decision dismissing the petition of Drew & Carroll, street contractors, from mandamus against the Committee on Streets and Highways for refusing to enter into a certain contract with them in which the Superintendent wished to insert a clause making it obligatory on contractors not to employ men more than eight hours per day.

Quite an extensive fire occurred this morning among the frame shanties on East street, from the corner of Merchant street north. Coffin & Patrick's ship chandlery, the Starr King saloon, Exchange bar room and Bredhoff & Suhlings saloon, were burned.

The steamer Colorado sailed for Panama yesterday with $792,615 in treasure. The next China steamer is expected about Wednesday. The Panama steamer is expected to arrive on Monday.

Controversy in Counting the Electoral Vote

CHICAGO, Feb. 1[illegible].—It will be remembered that a few days before the second electoral vote for Lincoln was counted, both houses adopted a joint resolution providing that in counting the electoral vote any question should arise about the vote of a State the Senate should retire and each House decide [illegible] On Monday each branch adopted new joint resolutions having special reference to the case of Georgia, which declared that the vote should be included in the summary, but the presiding officer in announcing the vote, should declare what the result would be with the vote and what it would be without Georgia. The Senate had also [illegible] that the objection respecting the vote of Georgia was not in order, but the House [illegible] When the Senate returned [illegible] Mr. Wade announced that the joint resolution had been sustained. Mr Butler snapped back with angry tones at the Senate and its President insisting on [illegible] Mr. Wade [illegible] vote [illegible] counted. Mr Butler at the top of his voice cried out, "I appeal from your decision." Mr. Wade said, "there is no appeal." The excitement became intense. There was the wildest confusion, the President having no control over the thoroughly excited body. Mr. Butler, again, at the top of his voice, appealed from the decision without avail. Messrs. Saulsbury and Doolittle sprang to their feet and hurled invectives at Butler. Mr. Butler hurled them back. Half the members and spectators were on their feet swinging their arms and yelling for order. Sharp words echoed through the hall from every quarter, mixed with cheers, cries of order, clapping of hands and laughter. Mr. Butler was wild with rage. Mr. Wade was cool and obstinate, but incapable of preserving order. "Let us have peace," came from the Democratic side. Mr. Butler, with his sleeves rolled up, shouted that the Senate ought to have leave to go home, that the House could take care of itself, intimating that the Senate and its President were interlopers. The excitement at this point can't be described. It extended through the entire hall and into the galleries. Mr. Colfax sprang to his feet and in a voice that could be heard above the terrible roar and din, ordered the Sergeant-at-Arms to arrest any member of the House who refused to obey the orders of the President. The Sergeant at Arms sprang into the thickest of the fray just in time to prevent a personal collision between Messrs. Ingersoll and Farnsworth. There was little abatement of the excitement for some time, but Mr. Wade found time to declare the result, and announced that U. S. Grant, of Illinois, had been elected President of the United States, and Schuyler Colfax of Indiana, Vice President of the United States. He then ordered the Senate to retire. The Speaker resumed the chair and called the House to order, when Mr. Butler, smarting over his defeat, said he arose to a question of privilege and submitted a resolution declaring the action of the Senate and its President, arbitrary and tyrannical. Upon this resolution he took the floor and spoke an hour only as Butler can speak, under the severest mental excitement. While confining himself to parliamentary language, he yet found words of most cutting and abusive character. He denounced the Senate and Wade and in a suppressed form of screeches which inferred the most dishonorable motives to Colfax, his words boiled out, seething and hissing with rage, which he did not attempt to conceal. Speaker Colfax, whose feelings could only be judged by his face and trembling hands asked permission to reply, having previously vacated the chair to Dawes and taken his seat among the members. Mr. Butler declined to give him the floor and continued to pour out his impassioned eloquence. At last, from sheer exhaustion he resumed his seat. The floor was given to Mr. Colfax. No trace of anger was visible in his voice or manner. Very calmly and smoothly he begun and for the first time during the day there was silence in the chamber. There were no invectives or denunciations in his speech. It was dignified, calm, impressive and manly, but every period cut to the quick, although not a single harsh word was used. The House, without coming to a vote on Butler's resolution finally adjourned; but however, before it became necessary to light the hall, the vote was announced. Grant and Colfax, 243 votes; Seymour and Blair, 80 votes, counting Georgia, and 71 without Georgia.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The Speaker said the first business in order was the question of privilege pending at the adjournment yesterday. Having expressed an opinion he asked if he was to occupy the chair during the discussion.

Shellabarger made a speech in opposition to Butler's resolution protesting against counting the vote of Georgia.

Messrs. Wilson and Pruyn were appointed a Committee to inform the President and Vice President of their election.

Mr. Shellabarger's speech defended the action of the Vice President. He said the concurrent resolution had settled all difficulty in advance and that this was copied from a similar concurrent resolution adopted at the time of the election of President Monroe.

Mr. Thomas said thirty-two years ago he was a teller to count the electoral votes when Van Buren was elected. Then a difficulty existed relative to the State of Michigan, which Mr. Clay with great foresight avoided by preparing concurrent resolutions similar to that under which the joint Convention acted yesterday.

Mr. Bingham denounced Mr. Butler's resolution as being revolutionary and unwarrantable as any act of secession, and called upon the House to compel him to take it back.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Mr. Schenck replied to the legal arguments of his colleague Bingham, and denied that the convention was not bound by the concurrent resolution. He denied, in the course of his remarks, the power of the Speaker in joint convention to order the arrest of members as on yesterday, referring to Speaker Colfax, who defended himself against imputation, that he had exceeded his rights, claiming that he had performed a simple duty.

Mr. Schenck disclaimed any intention to impugn the motives of the Speaker, as it was only a question of law with him.

Mr. Colfax continued to speak at length.

Mr. Garfield addressed the House, animadverting strongly on the conduct of members of the House yesterday, and moved the previous question on motion to table the resolution. It was afterwards withdrawn.

Mr. Logan obtained the floor and yielded an half hour to Mr. Butler, who replied to the attack of Bingham, and disclaimed the idea that Wade was responsible for the rulings yesterday, saying that he was the mouth piece of some one, parliamentary courtesy forbade saying who. He modified his resolution to read, that the House protests against the manner of the proceedings and the order of the President of the Senate in the presence of the two houses in counting the vote of Georgia in obedience to an order from the Senate. He said that his adjourning the Joint Convention at his own will, was an invasion of the rights and privileges of the House. After referring the resolution to a joint committee of five, with leave to report at any time by bill or otherwise, the House took a recess until evening, when it disposed of previous bills, discussed the invalid pension bill and adjourned, the debate on the privileged question pending till to-morrow.

Mr Dawes occupied the Chair as Speaker pro tem.

Mr Logan made a vigorous speech against Butler's resolution, or against censure, real or implied upon Mr. Wade, whom he eulogized very highly, and concluded by desiring Mr. Butler to withdraw his resolution.

Butler protested that he never believed Wade ever meant to do any intentional wrong, but he considered the privileges of the House had been invaded, and it was necessary we should have legislation, so that it would never happen again. Butler again disclaiming any intention of censure. Gen. Wade [illegible] to withdraw the resolution and accept [illegible] suggested by Kelley, which orders that the [illegible] an amendment of joint rules, governing a joint convention, [illegible] electoral votes be referred to a Select Committee.

Pruyn and Mr. [illegible] desired to offer [illegible] but Logan refused to yield. Mr. Farnsworth made a point of order that the [illegible] accepted by Mr. Butler, was not a privileged question. The Speaker pro tem over ruled [illegible] of order and Mr. Farnsworth appealed, which was laid on the table by [illegible]

The next business was the bill to authorize the building of a Military and Postal Railroad, from Washington to New York, which passed by 100 to 44.

Mr. Pike reported a bill to pay the officers and crew of the steamer Kearsarge $190,000, to be distributed as prize money, that being the estimated value of the rebel pirate Alabama. After some discussion a proviso was inserted that no money shall be paid to assignees in any manner entitled to a share in the prize, but only to the mariner himself or his wife and children. Bill passed.

Boutwell, from the Reconstruction Committee, reported a bill to provide a provisional government in Mississippi, which was ordered printed.

Mr. Pruyn attempted to offer a resolution instructing the committee on revision of laws to inquire and report what necessary legislation should be had in regard to counting the electoral votes, but objection was made and the House took a recess. The evening session will be exclusively devoted to a discussion of the tax bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—In the House, Mr. Davis offered a resolution declaring that the noisy and disorderly conduct of Ben Butler and other members of the House was disreputable and an insult to the people of the United States. The resolution went over under the rules.

A resolution providing for the publication of the Medical and Surgical History of the War was recommended after some discussion.

The morning hour having expired, the Senate proceeded to consider the currency bill. On motion of Chandler, an evening session was ordered for the discussion of the river and harbor bill. Mr. Conkling addressed the Senate, and Morrill of Vermont, discussed the general question of currency [illegible] his own amendment to the bill, requiring national banks to keep on hand [illegible] specified amounts of coin.

The bill for the further security of equal rights in the District of Columbia passed. The same bill passed twice previously, but in both cases too late to become a law.

The bill passed to regulate elections in Washington and Idaho Territories.

Mr. Corbett introduced a bill for the construction of an Oregon Branch Pacific Railroad. The Senate, after spending a short time in executive session, took a recess.

Mr. Abbott introduced a bill to aid in the construction of the Texas Pacific railroad. Referred.

Mr. Cragin reported with amendments, a bill to provide for the better administration of justice in Territories.

Mr. Ramsey moved to take up joint resolution declaratory of the act to establish a line of mail steamers to Europe. It gives the company another year to build their ships.

Thayer favored the bill and Mr. Sumner also spoke in favor of taking it up. The discussion was still progressing when the morning hour expired.

On motion of Trumbull, Wednesday was set apart for the consideration of the bill reorganizing the judiciary system.

On motion of Sherman, the Senate resumed the consideration of the currency bill and Mr. Morton addressed the Senate in an elaborated speech. Mr. Morton's speech will be telegraphed west late to night.

Mr. Williams followed, advocating his amendment, providing that not over two million dollars currency shall be converted in any one month. He attacked Mr. Morton's theory and plans in regard to finance, and defended the scheme of the Finance Committee, which with his amendment would be the best and safest way yet suggested for bringing about specie resumption.

Mr. Sherman opposed Mr. Williams' amendment, because it would be difficult to determine who should be entitled to the preference in the conversion of greenbacks into bonds when the amount was limited to two millions per month.

Mr. Williams thought this a very slight difficulty.

Mr. Morton opposed all contraction as unnecessary.

Mr. Fessenden also gave his views on the subject.

The Senate then took a recess till 7.30.

The evening session was devoted to the consideration of the River and Harbor bill.

Mr. Howard introduced a joint resolution authorizing the North Pacific Railroad Company to issue the first mortgage bonds to the extent of 32,000 per mile on the main road and branch road to Portland, Oregon.

The Southern Pacific Railroad.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Senator Abbott's bill authorizing consolidation of Atlantic and Pacific and Southern Pacific Railroad Companies, under the name of Texas & Pacific Railroad Company, to construct Railroad and telegraph from Marshall, Texas, to connect with Atlantic and Pacific on the east hundredth meridian, and aids the enterprise by granting lands and guaranteeing interest bonds to the amount of $40,000 per mile.

Grant and Colfax Notified of their Election.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The Committee appointed to notify Gen. Grant of his election as President, performed the duty this morning, Senator Norton making the address. On receiving the certificate of election, Gen. Grant said in accepting the office of President, he assured them of his determination to carry out faithfully all the obligations of that office: and referring particularly to the necessities for the honest and faithful execution of the revenue laws, said he would call around him men who would earnestly carry out principles of economy, retrenchment and honesty which are required by the people of the country. Should the officers of the different branches of the government not satisfy him in the discharge of their official duty, he would not hesitate a moment in removing them, and would do so as quickly with his own appointments as with those of his predecessor.

Gen. Grant stated that he had not announced his Cabinet up to the time of the official declaration of the result of the election, but had intended at that period to make known the names of those he would wish to have become members. In the interval, however, he had concluded not to make known the names of the gentlemen whose services he would be glad to have in this respect, even to the gentlemen themselves, until he sends them to the Senate for confirmation. The reason for this determination, Grant said was because of the fact that should he do so, the pressure would immediately commence from various parties to endeavor to induce him to change his determination, not so much probably from the fact that opposition would be made, as from personal motives, and on account of the interest which gentlemen may have for their own friends. For these and other reasons, he had concluded to make no public announcement of his Cabinet till the time mentioned.

At the conclusion of the interview the Committee waited on Colfax and presented him with his certificate of election as Vice President, and the usual speeches were made.

The steamers are known to be suitable for the Oregon trade, and are noted for good speed and splendid passenger accommodation. The people of Oregon will have an opportunity of showing whether they are willing to patronize good and staunch steamers, at a reasonable price for freight and passage, as it will depend on the patronage these steamers will receive whether they will remain in our waters or not.
